Music Festival - Concert Insurance Explained

Event Insurance Is a Critical Piece for Any Concert, Fair or Festival

This week and next TSE will help you understand the various types of event insurance. There is always a possibility of incidents happening that are beyond your control as an organizer for a fair, festival, public concert, corporate events and even private parties and wedding. Sh_t happens.

It doesn't take a deadly event like what happened at the Astroworld Festival to be financially ruinous to event producers. Heavy rain during the event which keeps people away can also take a heavy financial toll on the organizer of an event.

Outdoor festivals, fairs, and concerts are particularly susceptible to the whims of Mother Nature. That's why when you talk about event insurance, the first topic that comes to mind for such events is "rain" insurance. Actually "weather" insurance policies cover various forms of adverse weather events, from rain to temperature extremes. In Part One of this series on event insurance, we will explain just what weather insurance is all about and your options for securing a weather insurance policy for your event.

Client Review: Another 5 Star Google Review (Actually all of our reviews are 5-Star)

This was my first time booking entertainment for a large event. I did not know what to do or where to start. Luckily I found TSE Entertainment and the lovely Glenda Black! She immediately eased all of my worries, led me through the process, secured our first choice of entertainment on budget, and made this entire process completely stress free. I will forever be grateful for all of her help and will only with Glenda and TSE in the future!
